Appendix A. Moreover, Caradonna demonstrates that the French monarchy took academic competitions quite seriously, sponsoring numerous contests on such practical matters as deforestation, the quality of drinking water, and the nighttime illumination of cities.

Caradonna draws on archives both in Paris and the provinces to show that though many of them, of course, disagreed that enlightened science improved society and the human mind, but Adkins is not much interested in critiques and conflict. An engaging primer of the history of the sustainability movement from the 18th century to the present day, illuminating how sustainability evolved from a relatively marginal idea to the centerpiece of international accords, a top priority for governments and non-profit organizations, and a philosophy of hope and resilience with widespread appeal. Email address:.
