When a contemplation or meditation is about something that can be gazed on, for example, a contemplation of Christ our Lord, who is visible, the composition consists of seeing in imagination the physical place where that which I want to contemplate is taking place. Rothwell, Jr.

VII, analyzes Caravaggio's naturalism. Lionello Venturi. The Musicians is envisaged not as a depiction of a contemporary concert, but an allegory of Music and Love Love being symbolized by the cupid gathering grapes. Accademia Carrara. Caravaggio conveys a deeply individualistic understanding of the Christian mysteries, over which he throws a unique, painful and disruptive light – a light that brings his sacred works their outstanding enigmatic force.
